The Seven Bridge Writers' Collaborative had over 140 poems submitted for this year's Lancaster Schools' Poetry Contest!

Thayer Memorial Library has been given copies of all of these submissions. They have been placed in a binder which is now at the Circulation Desk for all to browse through. We hope you'll stop by to see this wonderful selection from our very talented and creative young poets here in Lancaster.

Names have been omitted from the poems in order to assure that this is a blind judging, but the poems have been grouped by grade category so that they are easy to browse through.

Once the judges have selected this year's winners, the winning poems will be posted in the Library for all to see. We hope you will continue to encourage and support these talented youngsters as they explore their gift for words and work with their muse. We may have some budding Emily Dickinsons or Robert Frosts in our midst.

April is National Poetry Month

Writing and the Spiritual Life with Reverend Robert Johansen

In this workshop we will sample contemporary spiritual writing drawn from several genres, explore qualities that make writing spiritual, and compare and contrast spiritual writing with other types of writing. The workshop will also include writing exercises to help each participant explore his or her own spiritual experience and how it might be incorporated into other types of writing. Bob Johansen currently serves as Minister of First Church of Christ Unitarian in Lancaster. He describes writing as spiritual practice—paying attention to the movement of the Spirit within us, between us and around us. Bob has worked for over twenty years as an ecumenical spiritual director in the contemplative tradition of the Shalem Institute, has twice been chosen to participate in the Collegeville Ecumenical Writing Workshops at St. Johns University in Collegeville, Minnesota, and was awarded a Lilly Grant for Clergy Renewal in 2010. He is the author of over 60 articles on faith and spirituality published in The Gardener News; his work is included in Mary Ylvisaker Nilsen’s Words That Sing: Composing Lyrical Prose (Zion Press, 2012).

AFTER THE WINTER

by Claude McKay

Some day, when trees have shed their leaves
And against the morning's white
The shivering birds beneath the eaves
Have sheltered for the night,
We'll turn our faces southward, love,
Toward the summer isle
Where bamboos spire to shafted grove

And wide-mouthed orchids smile.
And we will seek the quiet hill
Where towers the cotton tree,
And leaps the laughing crystal rill,
And works the droning bee.
And we will build a cottage there
Beside an open glade,
With black-ribbed blue-bells blowing near,
And ferns that never fade.
